

Mr. Dunn graduated from North Boone High School in 1978. After graduation he entered Vandercook College of Music. While at Vandercook, Stacey studied teaching pedagogy and directing techniques under co-founder H. E. Nutt and studied tuba under Clyde Bashand and later studied under Arnold Jacobs, principle tuba of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, and Rodger Rocco, renowned Chicago area brass teacher. In 1983 Mr. Dunn was named Assistant Band Director in Oliveira Intermediate School and served as assistant director to Paul Flinchbaugh in Brownsville, Texas. In 1987, Oliveira was named the TMEA (Texas Music Educator's Association) CCC Texas Honor Band and performed at the state convention. As head director at Perkins, his band was a TMEA honor band finalist in 1989 (7th) and 1991 (3rd). In 1993 Mr. Dunn went to Lopez High School in Brownsville, Texas. Stacey's bands were named to the TMEA 5A State Honor Band List three times, 1996 (2nd), 1998 (2nd), and 2000 (2nd). The Lopez

Marching Band also advanced to the Texas State Marching Contest three times. In 2000 the Dunn's moved to Fort Worth, Texas, where Stacey took the position of Head Band Director at Southwest High School. At Southwest, Stacey's bands were TMEA 4A State Honor Band Finalists four times in 2008 (3rd), 2010 (5th), 2012 (2nd), and 2014 (4th). Southwest advanced to the Texas State Marching Band Contest in 2009, 2013 and 2015. During his years teaching in public schools Stacey Dunn's bands accumulated 30 University Interscholastic League Sweepstakes awards. Stacey worked individually with students every day and made one-on-one lessons part of the culture of the Southwest band program. In 2017 Mr. Retired from teaching and accepted his current position as Administrative Music Specialist at FWISD.
